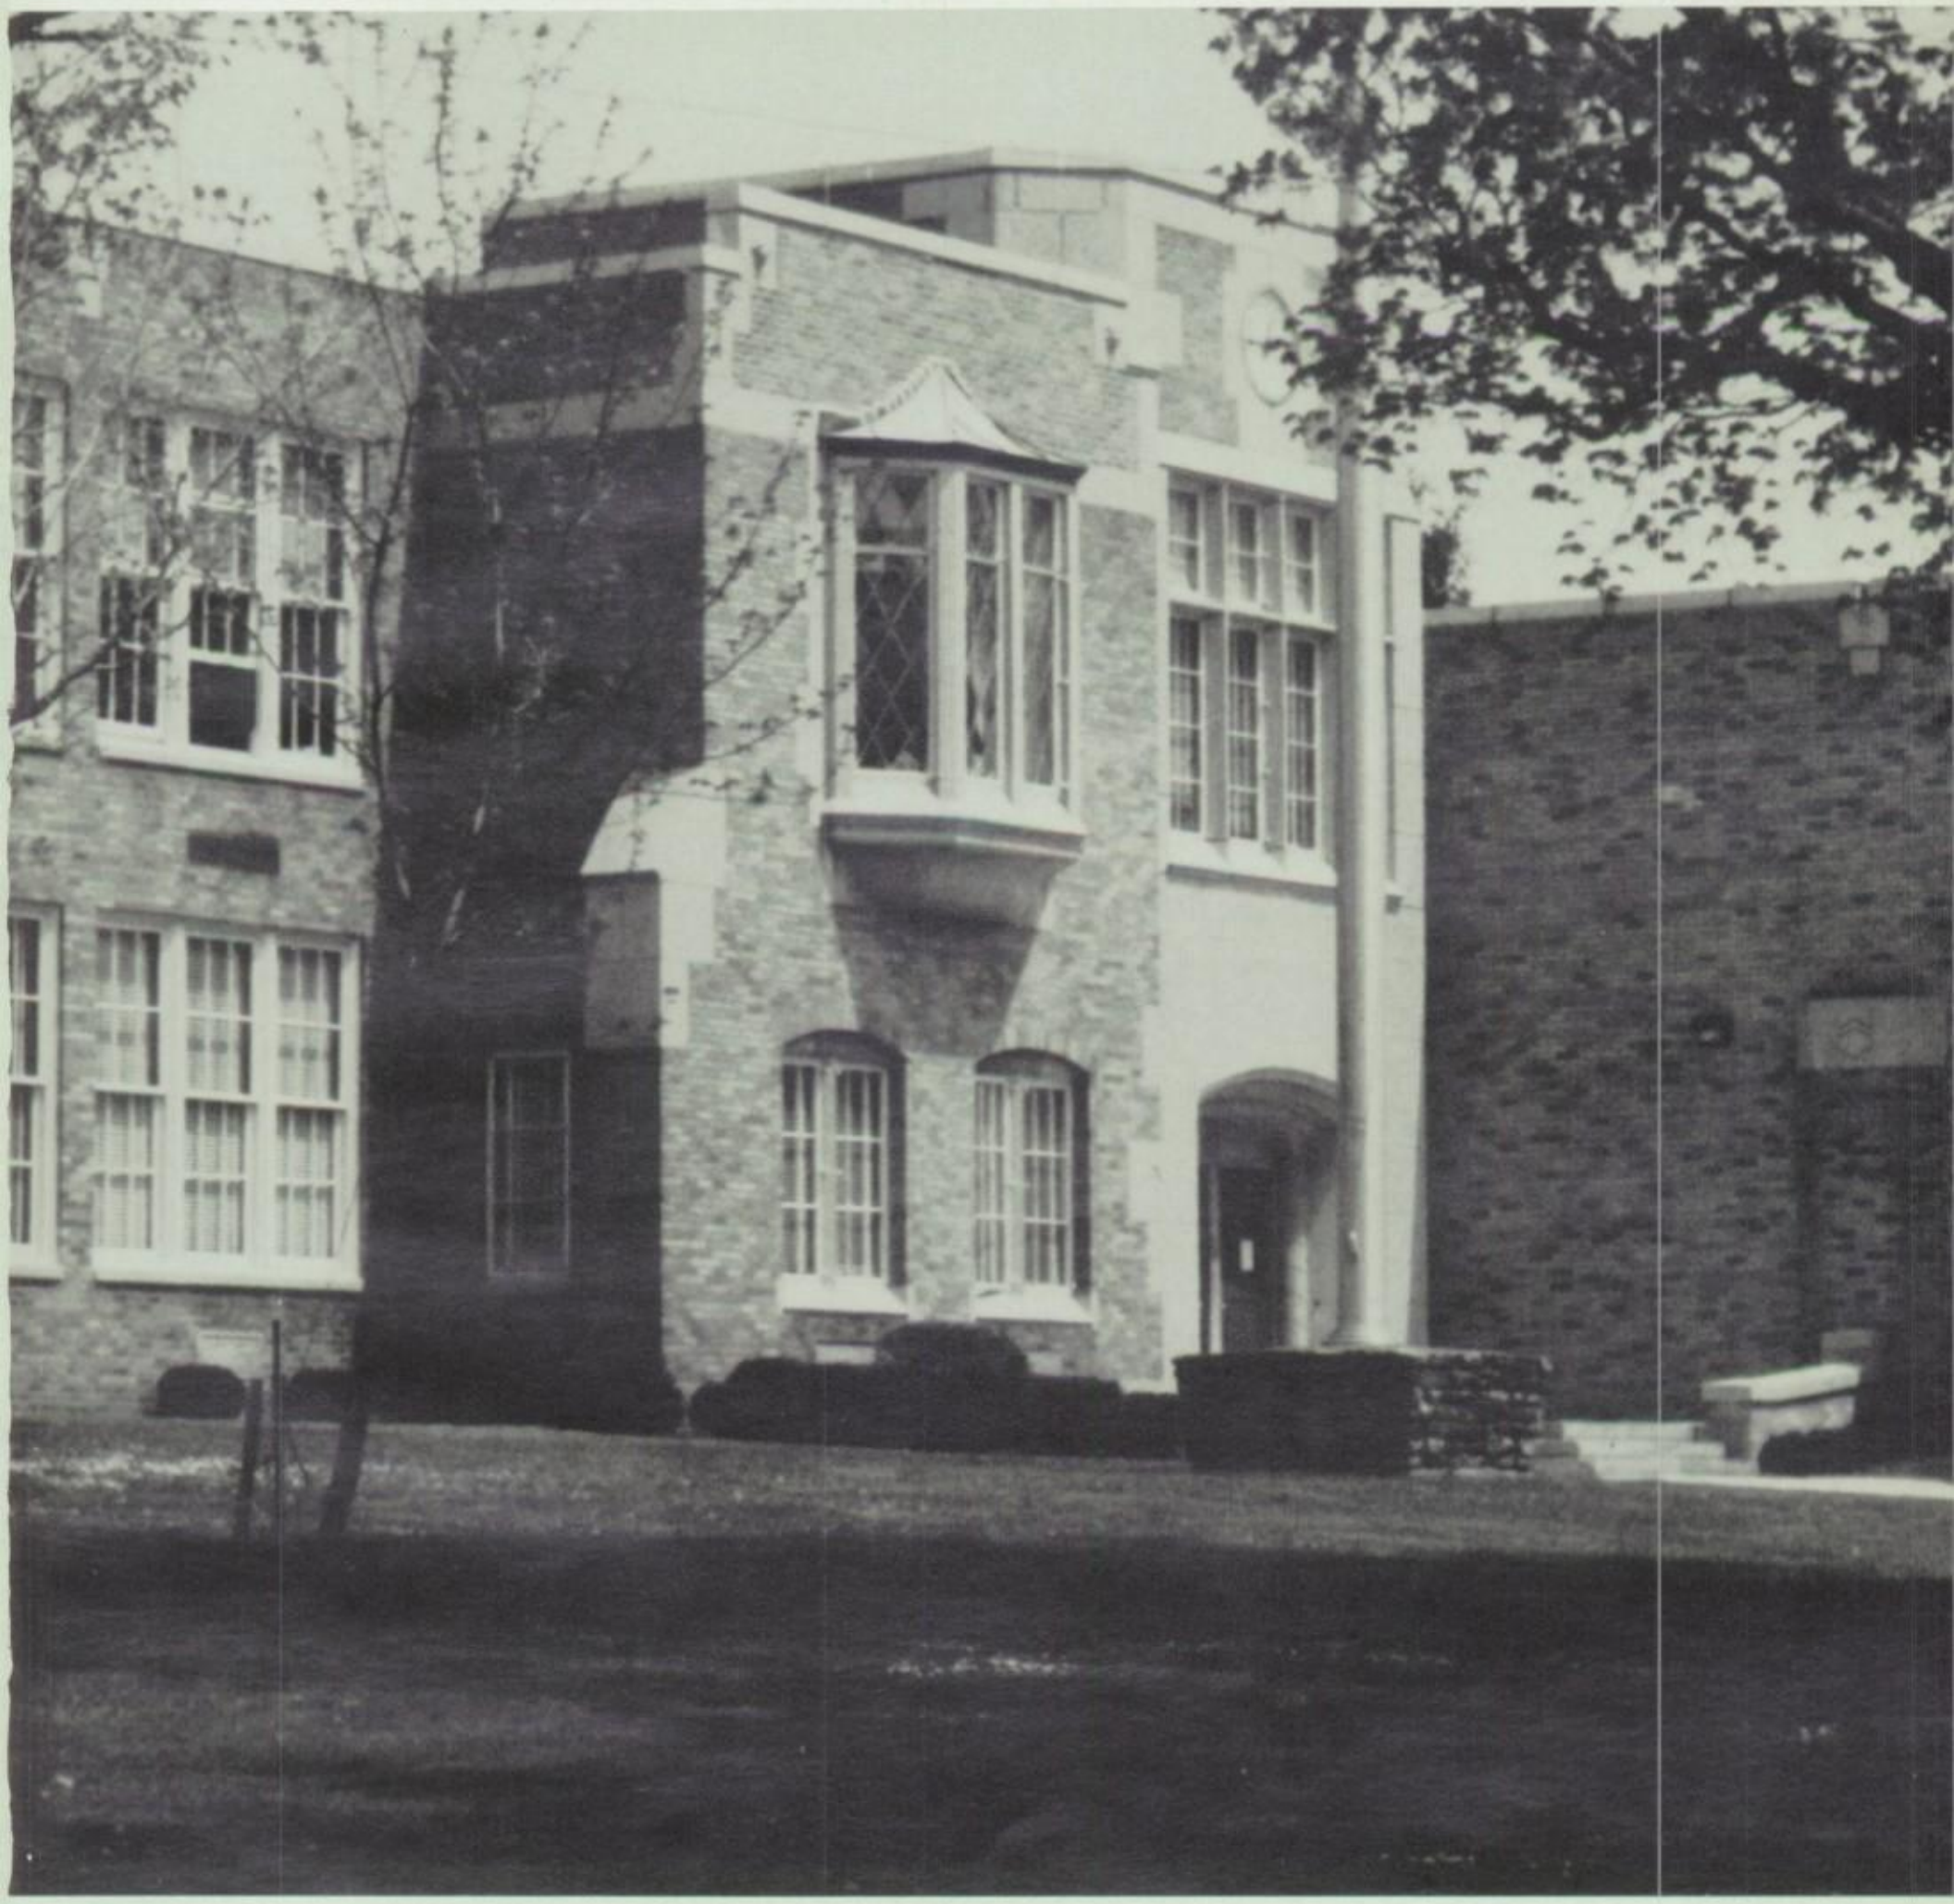
Presenting the 1984 Spotlight
Clymer Central School
Clymer, New York



The Spotlight crew wishes to express their sincere thanks to:
— Mrs. Carpenter for her leadership and humor at deadlines.
— The office ladies for their cheerful announcements.
— The teachers for tolerating our absences during class.
— The students for their crazy antics during pictures.
— To ourselves for devoting so much time to make a terrific yearbook.

Fear and trepidation walked with us in our first steps to kindergarten.
Laughter and giggles rang through us on the playground.
Discouragement replaced discouragement when we began to try to write our names for our first time.
We would wait impatiently for the clock to end the school day.
Enrapture and awe was ours as words from a book took us to lands unknown.

1. Yeah, I saved the dike. 2. The wiz kids. 3. Have you seen my mommy? 4. What, no butter? 5. We're supposed to eat this?

1. The Four Musketeers. 2. $E=mc^2$? 3. I feel like I am running in circles. 4. My eye appointment is next week.

Laughter and tears abounded at our first taste of puppy love.
Disillusionment followed when we knew that we were no longer that in love.
Pride carried us through our winning games in jr. high sports.
Frustration was the name of the game as a math quiz got the better of us.
We were amazed at the concept of Boyle's law.
We exchanged looks of exasperation as we were told to "quiet down" for the third time.

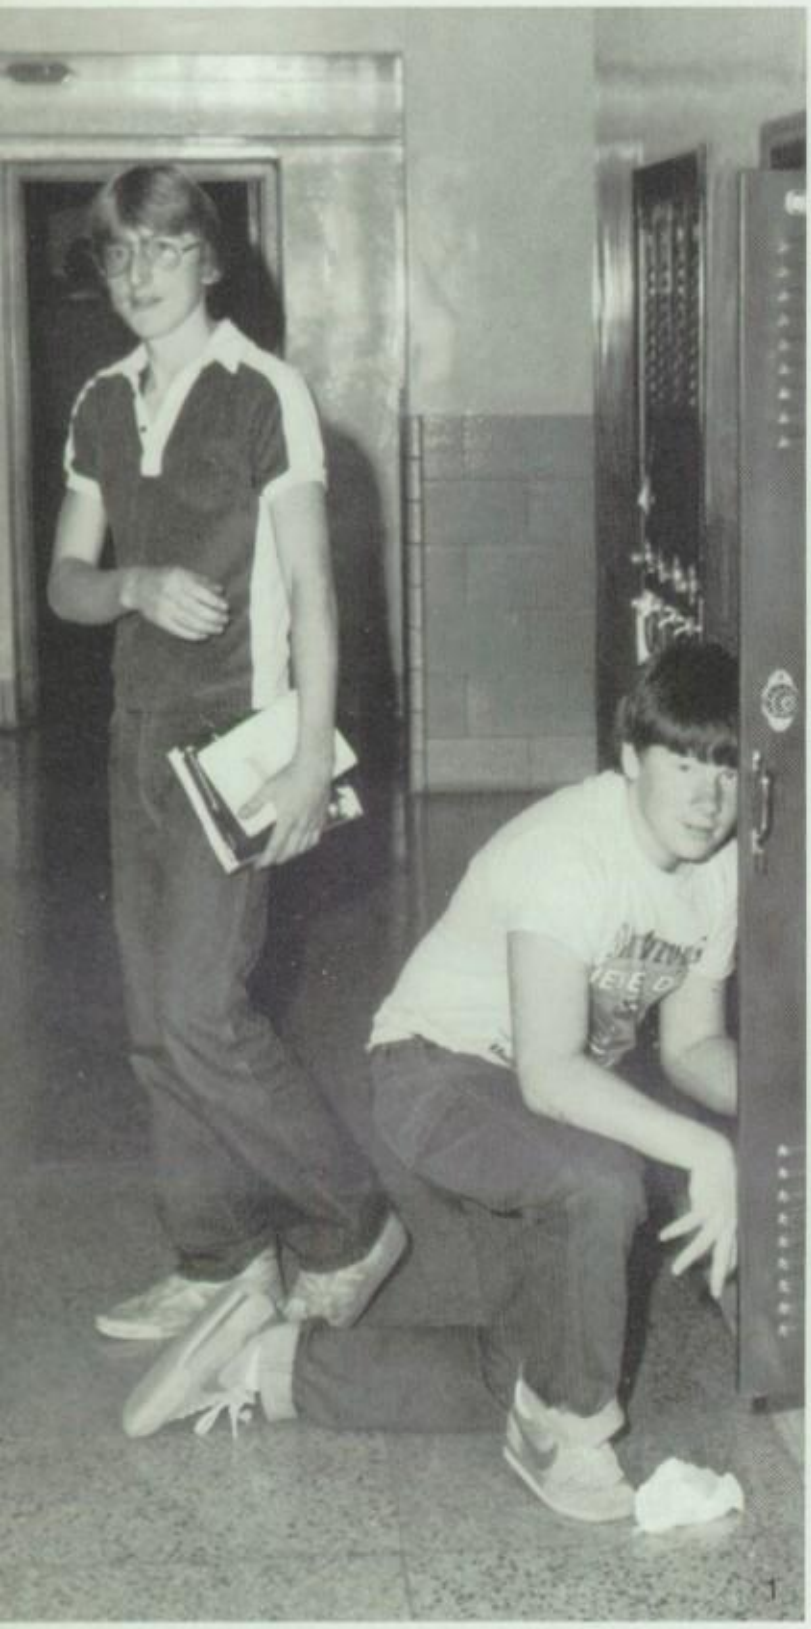
1. I don't believe I said that! 2. Don't peek. 3. Punk Tracy. 4. Top of the mornin' to ya. 5. I got this one on sale.

1. Trick or Treat. 2. The Pied Pipers of Clymer. 3. You're "x" and I am "o." 4. Not another Monday?

We will question ourselves again and again.
What problems will fate fling in our faces?
Will there be tears of joy?
Are we tomorrow's future?
Will there be a Nuclear War?
Will we find peace in our troubled world?
Clymer has taught us to walk and now the world will teach us to run and with practice we will surpass all expectations.



1. Laurel and Hardy. 2. We have to stop meeting like this. 3. Wait until Mr. Morgan reads this! 4. I don't do windows!

Dedication

Ever since Second grade we have had someone special to help us along our way. She can always be counted on to supply a good laugh. As a teacher, she discovered just the right mixture of learning and fun to make school a pleasant experience. She helped to prepare us for a world that does not always revolve around ourselves. Her vim and vigor and scrutinous supervision made the tremendous task of putting together this yearbook feasible. Most of the people in this school have no idea how much work goes into this project. She sacrifices her time, health, and often times, her sanity in order to make a deadline. The yearbook meetings are usually frenzied and hectic, but with this lady's presence the chaos and disorganization are brought to a semblance of order. For her dedication, humor, and hard work we dedicate our Spotlight '84 to you, Mrs. Carpenter.

The Board of Education represents the community at large. They frugally compose each yearly budget, make decisions about school policies, and listen to the few complaints made by the tax payers and citizens of this fine town. They do their best to run this school as efficiently as possible and for this we express our thanks.

Administration

Being an administrator of a school system is not an easy job. The students of today require a positive push to give them a good headstart in life. We see Mr. Swanson, Elementary Coordinator, during our first years of school as a very authoritative figure. When our high school years begin we must learn to deal with Mr. Reagle. Mr. Reagle is virtually our last step out of here as he hands us our diplomas and expresses his congratulations.

We wish to extend our gratitude to the people who make school seem more like home sweet home. Our arrival to and from school each day is made safe, due to the extraordinary skills of our bus drivers. They start our days with a cheery "good morning" and close them with a warm "good night," which is always appreciated. Through the stupendous effort put out by the C.C.S. Janitorial Staff, our school is one of the cleanest in the county. If you need a door unlocked or a locker unjammed, a janitor is usually willing to oblige. They are also always around to answer the call of "Would a janitor please call the office?" The cafeteria ladies arrive early every morning at school to begin preparing our meals of culinary delight. Everybody knows that on Tuesdays and Thursdays our lunch ladies bake delicious after dinner treats that are a pleasure to our taste buds. At class dinners, these ladies are always there with a helping hand and a refreshing smile. A sincere thank you to you all.

Special Helpers

We all remember the special duties that Mrs. Duink, Mrs. Hinsdale, and Mrs. Neckers did to make our school life more enjoyable. Story hour was always looked forward to because they miraculously brought the characters to life. Mr. Ryder, our school psychologist, does an excellent job helping students overcome the everyday emotional hurdles of life. As our speech and hearing expert, Mr. Favata aids Clymer's elementary students with any oral or aural difficulties they may have. Mrs. Bemis always has a kind word and band-aid for any bumps or bruises that may occur in Clymer's hallowed halls. Greeting us with a warm stethescope, is our school physician, Dr. Ho. He is on call at all times and always willing to give physicals. For all you do — this one's for you. THANKS!

. . . Flash! . . . Spotlighters Create Masterpiece!

This year the Spotlight crew, under the advisement of Mrs. Carpenter, strived to make a yearbook different from those of previous years. A great deal of preparation went into this task. Several members, for instance, attended yearbook workshops in Jamestown and Rochester where they learned more about editing, managing, and photography. For the most part, these are dedicated and hardworking individuals who gave it their all to come up with a quality book. The whole staff hopes you appreciate and enjoy their efforts.

The 1983-84 Spotlight Yearbook Staff would like to express their special thanks to those who helped us throughout the year. Because of their help with such tasks as typing, selling ads, writing copy, or other miscellaneous acts, our job was made feasible. Thank you.

Mr. Snyder
Thanks for all the help and encouragement advise and criticism. From a mid seventh grader to the eccentric junior I've come a long way and you've helped. Thanks again. What else can I say?
Mark

A Little Bit of Europe Visits Clyme

A.F.S.: The Clymer chapter of the American Field Service sponsored two wonderful students this year. We all feel very fortunate to have Fulvia Nicoli from Italy and Arndt Schottelius of West Germany. Their foster parents for their year at Clymer are Claudia and Ted Solinko and E. Clyde Snyder, respectively. Surely everyone has been enriched by Fulvia and Arndt's presence here. In September, the A.F.S. kicked off the new school year with a dinner to welcome Arndt and Fulvia. Another International Dinner was held in December. At both of these dinners many delicious and exotic dishes were served. These activities provided a chance for the adult and student members of the A.F.S. to get together and learn more about one another. Traditionally the A.F.S. has presented a gift of a free telephone call home to the exchange students for the holidays. This has always been a much appreciated gesture. Submarine sandwich sales and bake sales provide the A.F.S. with the necessary funds. Remember, the A.F.S. club is there for everyone, not just the Spanish students of this school. A.F.S. is a world wide organization. Wouldn't you like to join and watch it grow?

"Dearissimo Mr Eugene Clyde Snyder, Thank you for being my father, my friend, my teacher, my brother and ... Thank you for being such a great artist, my especially border for being Thar he's always has been a much appreciated friend for me. You know I'll always be open door of my house. I'll come this always keep open for me! because you can't soon as you can, me too much. I'll give to miss you! Love, so much from Fulvia (Remember? The Italian girl!!)

Lots of Love
Your German son

The Ruling Force

Spirit Week: Spirit Week at Clymer Central School was celebrated during the week of October 31. The hall decorating contest was definitely the main activity of the week. Students could be found during their free time beautifying their halls. By the end of the week the walls were plastered with clever sayings meant to express school spirit and cheer the football team on to victory. Unfortunately we lost our Homecoming game to the Mayville Eagles by four points, 12-8. The high point of the whole week had yet to arrive. At 8:00 pm the 1983 Homecoming Dance began. Music for the semiformal dance was supplied by Matrix. The Student Council skillfully decorated the gymnasium with streamers and bales of hay to create a relaxing autumnlike atmosphere. The crowning time was set for 9:30 pm. The excitement grew as that moment neared. The class representatives were: Freshmen — Brian Rater and Jennifer Nason, Sophomores — Marty Rater and Patty Volkman, Juniors — Ron Rater and Amy White, Seniors — Kevin Whitney and MaryAnn Maleski. A drum role could be heard as Mrs. Rhebergen opened the envelopes. Brian Holthouse was named King and Shelly Volkman Queen. It was a perfect end to a terrific, fun filled week.

Student Council: The students elected by their classmates to a seat on the Student Council hold a powerful position. Many vital decisions are made by these people concerning class activities. The Council sponsors Spirit Week and plans all the activities that accompany it. The Bloodmobile, which comes every May, is brought here by the Student Council. The students, staff, and community hope that their small contribution will save many lives during the course of the year.

Bands Galore

Included in the instrumental music curriculum is a stage band. The Stage Band plays mostly jazz music centered around the trumpet, saxophone, percussion, trombone, and flute sections. The Junior High School Band, also under the auspices of Mr. Varney, strives to improve the skills involved in playing in an organized group so that they may one day join the Senior Band. The instrumental music department in C.C.S. truly is a noteworthy organization.

The CCS band has been working diligently practicing, performing, and selling various items to get the funds for new uniforms. They bring vim and vigor to the home football games by acting as a pep band. Recently the group marched in the Edinboro State University Homecoming parade, giving those involved the experience of marching accompanied by fond memories. Each year the band also gives a Christmas concert in conjunction with the chorus and their own Spring concert. As the band practices faithfully every Monday and Wednesday, they have been showing great improvement under the direction of Mr. Varney. page 60. 4. PERCUSSION — M. Russell, C. Himelein, T. Future Farmers of America: As might be expected in a larg ly agricultural community like our own, the Clymer chapt of the Future Farmers of America is a very strong organiz tion. This club has been active for fourty-four years and presently under the direction of Mr. Howard Cornell. This ye the F.F.A. was involved in many community events, such establishing a Young Farmers Program; a series of nig classes for graduates who work on or own farms. Christmas time the F.F.A. is responsible for decorating a keeping the windmills lit. Also, each year the F.F.A. brings little "southern sunshine" to this cold northern community the form of an orange and grapefruit sale. In November t officers of this club had the pleasurable experience attending the 56th annual F.F.A. National Convention in Ka sas City where 23,000 were in attendance. While there the attended lectures and films, toured Kansas City, and visite the American Royal Livestock Show, among the other ever too numerous to mention here.

BOCES is an alternate educational program for those students who choose to pursue training that will prepare them for a future in a variety of different occupational areas that normal classroom education could not provide. There are courses offered in Cosmetics, Nursing, Auto Mechanics, Diesel and Agricultural Mechanics, Data Processing, Carpentry, Conservation, Landscaping, Machine Trades, and Welding. These students are receiving training for a career in their chosen professional occupation.

Others Type

Student Secretaries: These girls are responsible for neatly typing the tests that we have in various classes. If these students did not devote their free time to helping the teachers, we would not only be struggling through their tests but also trying to decipher the teacher's handwriting. By the time the end of the school year rolls around, these people will have become very proficient in operating various office machines. For some of these girls, this is excellent training and experience for their future. Because of the jobs that these ladies do, the teachers are able to devote more of their time to the task of teaching their students and educating them for the future.

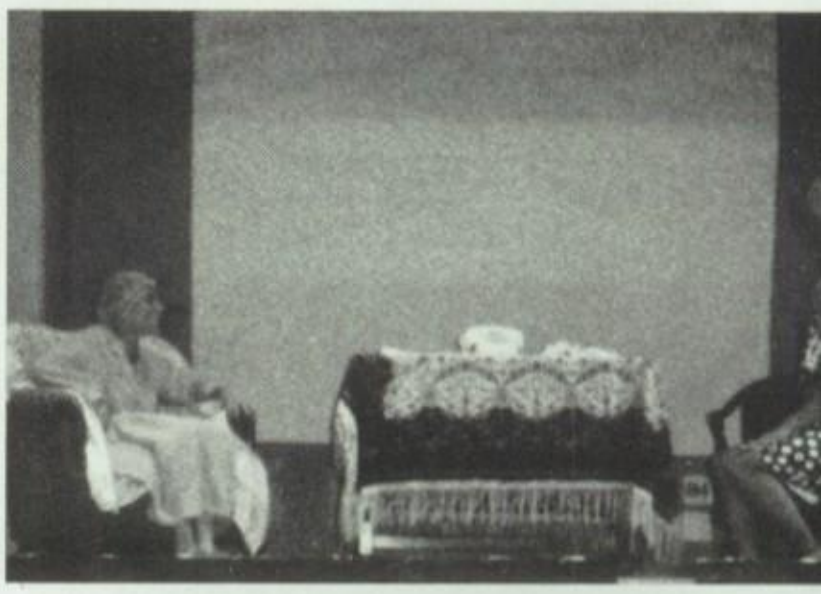
All Creatures Witty and Wise



The creative genius of Mr. Morgan rose to new heights this year with his production, direction and original creation of our Senior Play. The play consisted of nine short skits, which, when combined, provided Comedy Tonight. It was similar in format to a prime-time comedy replete with commercials and news updates. This gala theatrical event of the year finally aired on December 2nd and 3rd after many unforeseen events and unavoidable obstacles. The grand finale of the evening was a skit called "Out of the Night," that forced the audience into fits of rowdy pandemonium. If you missed the program the first time around, it is unfortunate because there will be no rebroadcasts.

To be number one, any sport's team must practice for many hours nd have the desire to achieve this goal. The same goes for a scholar, his esire and intensity for learning must precede other, more popular ven- ures. The society attempts to promote academic excellence and provide nriching experiences. If possible, the N.H.S. tries to visit different schools dur- g the year. They receive new ideas and learn more about life outside of lymer. The most awaited event of the year is the dinner held in June. A ibute is paid to the Seniors, Faculty, and Parents at this banquet.

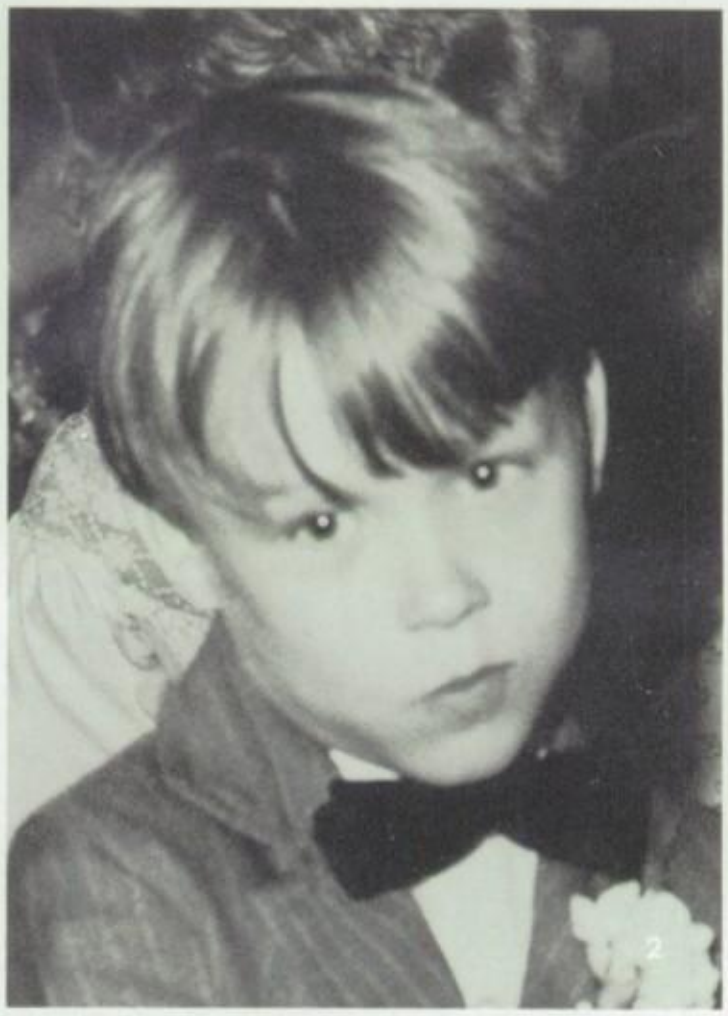
Stephanie Raak was given a very special title on May 13, 1983. She walked the long grassy runway to her place of honor. First, Denise Faulkner gave the new queen a footstool for her royal feet from the Freshman class. The Sophomore class presented a necklace to her highness delivered by Jennifer Norcross. MaryAnn Maleski, a member of the Junior class, placed the Crown upon Stephanie's head. Unfortunately, the fragrance of lilacs did not fill the air as a late frost ruined their chances for survival. The Senior girls walked between the archbearers carrying bouquets of daisies instead of under the arches of lilacs. The flower girls and May pole winders added that special touch to the whole ceremony. Our appreciation goes out to the musicians who helped to make the festivities a delight.



The Gas Light Motor Inn of Lakewood, N.Y. was the sight of the 1983 Junior-Senior Prom. Heather Raak nd Craig Dunnewold greeted the guests as Mistress and Master of Ceremonies on Friday May 20. At 30 PM, Heather and Craig sat down with their guests to a dinner of Redsnapper or Beef au jus. Music for is romantic evening was supplied by Impulse. The magic moment of the evening arrived at midnight hen the court was announced. Steve Denny and Stephanie Raak were crowned as the Royal couple. eir Junior counterparts were Becky Martin and Jim Bucklin. The special song for the evening was "On e Wings of Love" by Jeffrey Osborne. Surely this terrific evening given by the class of '84 to the class of 3 will be remembered for many years to come.

The Ski Club, needless to say, is composed of expert skiers and novices who enjoy the Winter Wonderland. This organization was founded some 19 years ago with the opening of the Peek 'n Peak ski resort. Extended to the members of this club is a discount given on rentals, lessons, and season passes. This gift is much appreciated by the students of C.C.S. Each year this group sponsors a beginners night in hopes of enticing new members to this exhilarating sport. A ski trip is also usually planned to one of the neighboring slopes. Ms. Meehl-Drake, Mrs. Solinko, and Mr. Snyder lead these fearless individuals down the treacherous slopes of our nearby recreational area.

The 1983 baseball team, considering how young and how few players there were, did very well. Finishing 4-10 in league play and 4-12 overall, there is much promise for future seasons. Clymer baseball in recent years, has done a very good job in Division III competition. With the returnees from the 1983 team 84's team should soar to greater heights with more experience. Steve Denny captured the 1983 stick-ball Most Valuable Player award.

N THE ROUGH

The Lady Pirates completed yet another successful softball season with a league record of 12 wins against 2 losses, and an overall record of 14 victories, 4 defeats. This was enough to earn them a 1st place tie with Brocton and a play-off spot. In post-season play, the Lady Pirates defeated Cassadaga Valley, but then lost a heartbreaker against Panama to finish as Co-champions in our league. The team voted Candie Tryon the Most Valuable Player for 1983 and Sue Bailey was nominated by the Post-Journal as a Division III All-Star player.

1983 saw the return of the Clymer Track Team under the auspices of Mr. McMullin and Mr. Condon. Being young and inexperienced, only two members having run previously, victory was not their prime concern. Although, winning only one meet the team had an exciting and fun season. The hopes for the future are bright as only two members graduated.

The 1983 Pirate net team was an enthusiastic and never say die group of young people. We may not have been successful on paper, but we were very proud to be a cohesive team. Winning is not as important as working together, learning, and having fun. With only three players from the 1983 team leaving after graduation: Craig Bensink, Dan Caflisch, and Hal Kinal, the 1984 squad, with 1983 MVP Jim Bucklin, can look forward to a successful spring season.

Bump, Set . . .

The 1983 Volleyball team had another brilliant year finishing as co-champions in Division III. Our Lady Pirates finished 11-1 in league and 16-3 overall. Sue Denny made a new Clymer single game record with 72 sets and received the MVP award. Sue Denny and Captain Shelly Volkman were honored with positions on Division III All-Star Team. Also this team was the first Clymer Volleyball team to advance farther than quarter finals. The Lady Pirates advanced to tough Division play-off action at J.C.C. to defeat the Panama Panthers in the semi-finals with a stunning exhibition of volleyball prowess. Their victory hopes were shattered when in the final game, Sherman defeated the Lady Pirates thus ending the season with a 2nd place title in Chautauqua county volleyball action.

The 1983 football season's record did not depict the type of team it really was. Because of some bad breaks, the team lost a few winnable games. However, at Cattaraugus the tide turned towards the Pirate side and the non-league game belonged to Clymer. Behind Scott Applebee's running and Ron Rater's passing, the Clymer game was at its maximum. Scott Applebee was voted the team's M.V.P.

The young Junior Varsity football team learned how to tough it out in all kinds of weather. Playing in mud, rain, sleet, and snow is not easy by any means, but the young men managed to tie the Sherman Wildcats, 6-6. Then the Pirates toughed it out in the cold at Mayville, only to suffer a loss to the Eagles. These experiences will help the Clymer attack when these pigskin players continue to compete in seasons ahead.

The 1983-84 girls basketball team, with Mr. Sweet again coaching, managed a play-off spot with a respectable league record of 10-4, putting them in third place. Departing seniors Eileen King and Sue Denny leave in their wake seven returning players to carry on the fight under the maroon and gold of Clymer Central. Page 82: 3. GIRL'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — Row 1: B. A narrow margin was all that stood between the boys basketball team and victory. Coach Winner led the team with keen strategy as the backbone for the plays. Seniors Jim Bucklin, Kevin Whitney and Brian (Ralph) Holthouse showed that experience and the love of basketball could make Tuesday and Friday nights exciting. The fans could always be sure of a close game — if the game was a race, it would call for a photo-finish.

In Memoriam

Floyd King was much more than just a crossing guard. job was to keep us from physical harm, but Floyd ent beyond that. When walking to or from school he s always there to pass the time of day with you. He ed our spirits with the jokes he told with a smile. Floyd oyed his life and cared about the lives of others. We all cherish the memory of the man who stood on the ner.

Mr. Donald Keys will be remembered by his students not only as a teacher but also as a friend. Mr. Keys not only shared his knowledge with us but also his life. His amusing anecdotes helped us find an insight into human nature. He loved life whether in the classroom or in the woods. We shall miss him and remember him in the years to come.

Amici, Freunde, Friends,

If you hadn't already noticed, there are two students in this school who aren't exactly home-growns. You'd have to look closely now, toward the end of their time here to really mark the differences: they have really come to fit in well with us. Not only have they changed, but so have we. Through them, we have become maybe just a little bit more aware of some things outside our own sub-culture called Clymer. The Spotlighters wanted to find out more about the similarities and differences that Arndt Schottelius and Fulvia Nicoli see between our cultures. We also wanted to get a more personal look at these people, so we put them in the Spotlight.

Fulvia Nicoli and Arndt Schottelius

Spotlight: What do you miss the most from home?
Fulvia and Arndt: Mostly just family and friends.

Q: How do you like our food?
F and A: The food here is much more varied. (The fact that we have 125 different kinds of crackers appeals to Fulvia).

Q: Are there any general differences you see between our cultures?
F: Things are a little more frenzied and hectic here.
A: Also, your homes have more appliances like dishwashers and toasters than do German homes. You have more TV's and your cars are bigger, too.

Q: Did you have many problems adjusting to life here?
F: Besides learning the language, I had no problems.
A: I have been very comfortable here; it feels much like home.

Q: What is a typical school day like?
F: I wake at 7:30, leave at 7:40. School begins at 8:00. I am taught all my classes in one room: five or six, 55 minute periods a day. We don't choose our courses, directly. We choose a high school that has a curriculum we like.
A: Ours is very much the same. School lasts from 7:35 to 12:45 on weekdays and alternate Saturdays. I am taking 15 subjects now and I have two to three hours of homework each day. Sports and other extra-curricular activities are not organized through the school. To play soccer, for instance, you must join a local soccer club. There is more scholastic pressure and less social pressure in Germany.

Q: What do you mean by "social pressures?"
F: You stress appearance more here than we do in Italy.
A: It also seems that you are under more pressure to conform.

Q: We've heard some nasty rumors that your toilet paper is inferior in quality to American t.p. Would you care to defend your positon?
F and A: Our toilet paper is highly comparable; there are no noticeable differences.

Q: What do you like to do with your free time?
A: I enjoy playing my cello and watching nature.
F: I don't know. I hate shopping, though.

Q: Do you foresee any problems with your return home?
F: I don't really want to go back if I'm not sure I can come back to visit with you here. I'd like a private jet I could use to fly back and forth whenever I want. I'm also afraid to see what changes a year has made in my friends at home and in me.

Q: Anything else?
F: Ciao!
A: Alles gute.

Will W

As this year draws to a close we are reminded that we will soon be leaving this school which has been a major part of our lives for as much as thirteen years. Some memories will no doubt be forgotten while others merely distorted. Expressions of one's past, play an integral part of how the future is perceived. Hopefully this yearbook has provided you with a tangible record of countless memories on which you may rely for years to come.

— careening down the big slide the first time
— those grade school class productions
— Dick and Jane and Spot
— Leslie Kennedy pooping on the trampoline
— 6th grade moving-up day
— the countless ceramic art pieces
— those educational class field trips
— the panic and trepidation of the first day of Junior High
— the entire plot of Our Town

Remember?

never to use double negatives
the snickers during the human reproduction apters
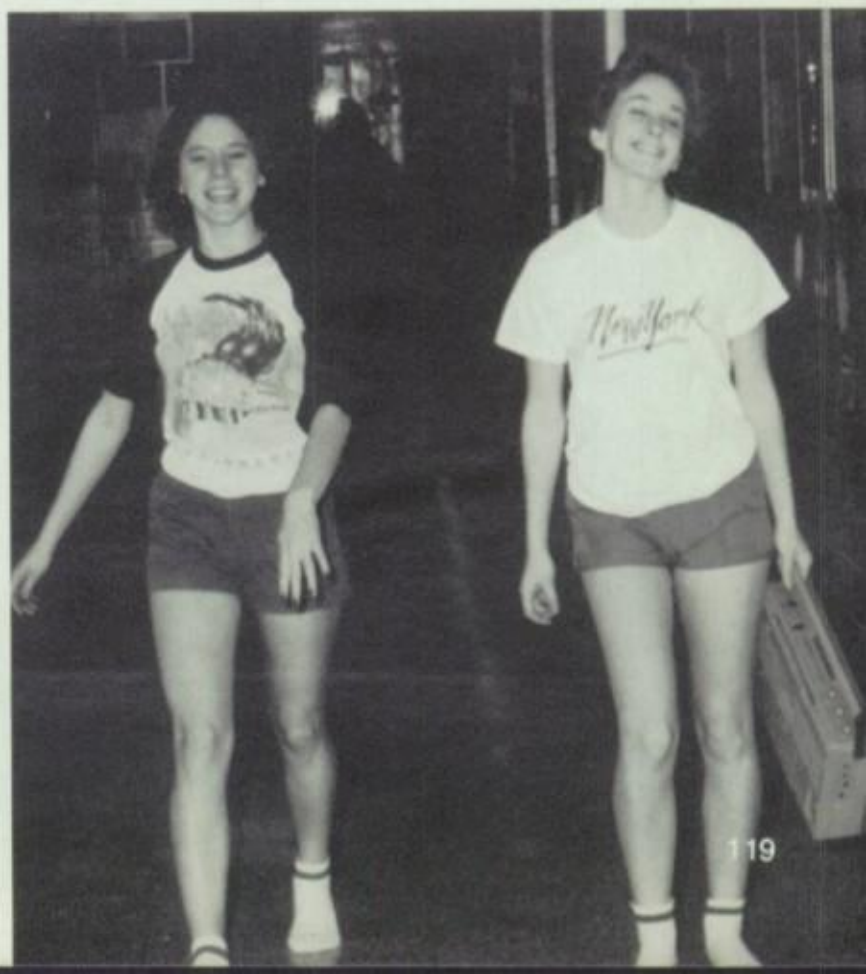
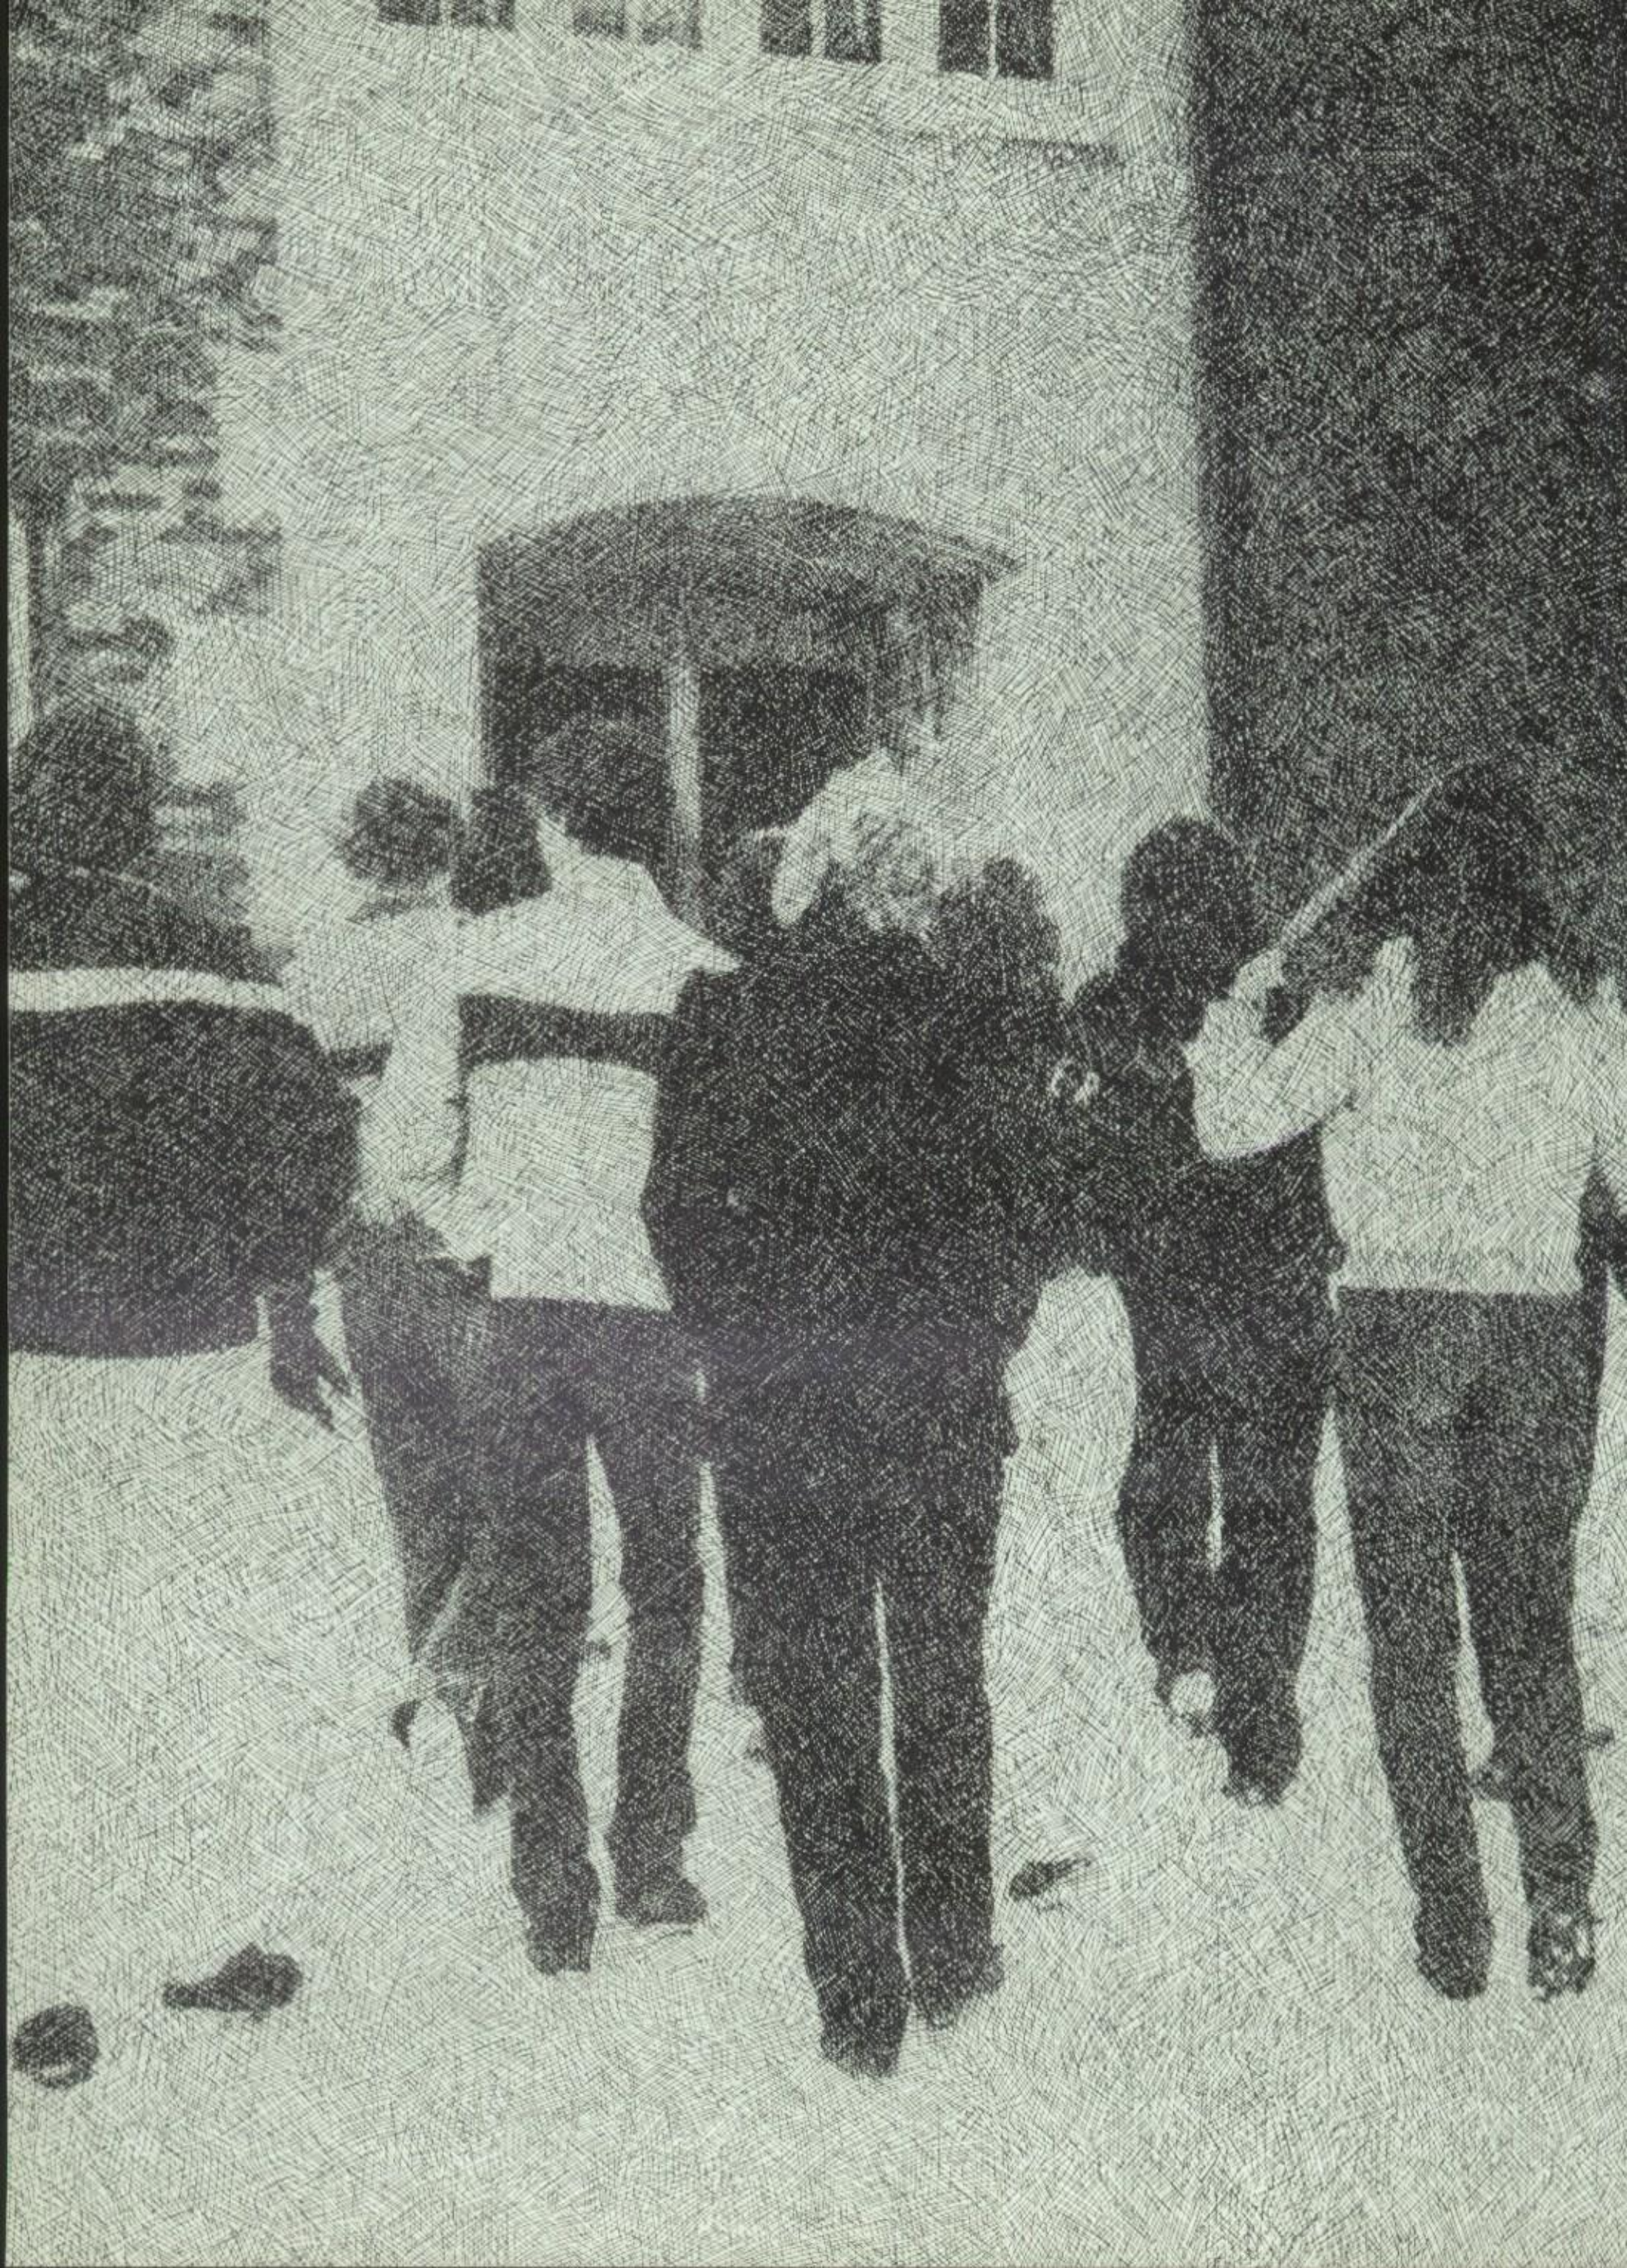
how much we learned in American History
the exhilaration of surviving Regent's Week
— the behind the wheel horrors of Driver's Ed.
— "Comedy Tonight"
— pep assemblies
— Christmas and Spring concerts
— fund-raising (blech)
— the relief of finally reaching the senior year
— the Prom that almost wasn't
— the crowning of the May Queen
— Toronto
— the mixed emotions of Graduation.





At church, in August of just last year
Clyde announced, " Arndt, my son is here!"

We looked you over and shook your hand
Glad to have you in our land.

You've been friendly to all with a nod and a smile
We felt we'd known you for a long, long while.

We have thoroughly enjoyed you in our midst
At many occasions to numerous to list.

You fit right in wherever you went
Showing your slides to youth or an older gent.

As a scholar your grades surpass
Where your were a member of the Senior Class.

This involved many projects during the year
Memories of which you'll long hold dear.

You went with Fulvia to other schools
And learned to follow their rules.

You also spent some time at the Winners
And enjoyed some of Joyce's delicious dinners.

You visited relatives and friends on occasion
Those invitations took no persuasion.

On Memorial Day weekend the class went to Toronto
It was GO - ENJOY and return again, PRONTO!

Pat and Mike who lived next door
Were such good neighbors and much, much more.

We heard your 18th Birthday party was a surprise
It's lots more fun when you don't surmise.

We enjoyed the music you made with your cello
Which proved you to be a talented fellow.

The lovely recital with Sara, Jay and Mary
Showed us how the instruments vary.

You were in choir and chorus and each musical thing
Our impression was that you liked to sing.

Sue is special to us-perhaps you'll remember her too
Ha! Maybe she's Mrs. Rhebergen to you!

Arndt, we wish you a safe flight home-
From The Clymer School and Church and the author of this poem!
